1. INTRODUCTION

The project web site and wiki pages are designed to act as both the outward facing public dissemination channel for all project activities and the communications hub of the project.

The project web site <http://www.mires.cc/> in particular aims to attract the widest possible range of external stakeholders by presenting the state-of-the-art in Music Information Research, in a form of demonstrative videos on the front page (Showcase Area), as well as by providing up-to-date information about MIREs related conferences, workshops and trade shows at the Research Area pages.

The project wiki pages http://mires.eecs.qmul.ac.uk/wiki/index.php/Main_Page serve as a full project documentation storage (WP2) freely available online to the general public as well as the platform for development of the Roadmap (WP3). In addition, there is a private space in order to host documents relevant to the project execution and reporting, which is only available for MIREs partners.

2 WEB SITE CONTENT

- ▲ the front page (Showcase Area), see Figures 1a-c
 - a list of the demos from the project partners: MTG-UPF, QMUL, STRO, INESCP, IRCAM, OFAI (all demos categorised and tagged)

4 CONCLUSION

The aim of this deliverable is to present MIREs online resources (both project website and wiki pages) which have been designed to act as dissemination channels for project news and achievements, as well as for all project activities and the communications hub. Concerning the dissemination channels, all tasks are proceeding according to the original plan and schedule.
